A TRIP TO ARKANSAS.

Mississippi—Phillips County—Arkansas—The State of Arkansas—April 7, 1860.

Editor's Appeal Just returned from a visit to Arkansas—Left Memphis on the 5th inst.—Arrived at Little Rock on the 6th—Left for Phillips County to give personal "sketches" of the impressions made upon me by what little I saw of the growing community.

I entered the State on horseback, at Helena, which I found to be a fair, populous, progressive, and growing place, than I had supposed. I found, afterward, too, that it possessed a back country superior in extent, and more fertile than the valley of the Mississippi—In fact, Little Rock and the Upper Arkansas are fast finding this out, and are constantly making investments and settling there.

Helena presents all the appearance of a rapidly growing town, and, though its houses are going up by the score in the rear part of the town, and many buildings are being erected, there is room enough for a great many more.
